Quote: "Being a Dolphin Scholar is so Important to me because I get to represent the service that has molded my life and made me who I am today. By being the child of a submariner I learned about independence, the importance of family, how to create a community wherever I am. I was able to be immersed in different cultures and truly grasped the importance of make the most of every opportunity. It was during this time growing up that I was prepared for college and I genuinely feel that my success over the course of my first year was because I grew up as a Navy dependent. I am so thankful to be a Dolphin Scholar and am excited to continue to share everything I learned growing up with my community."
